

IT Security Is No Longer a Luxury

Cyberattacks are becoming more frequent, rising by 42% in 2012 alone. Larger companies have long been forced to adopt security systems. Although everyone understands the importance of protecting web pages, not every company can yet afford the required costs.

Thanks to EasyAudit, this is finally changing. This innovative start-up has reduced the cost of quality protection enough to make IT security accessible to everyone, including businesses once considered "too small".

What is the secret of "security for everyone"? EasyAudit guarantees quality and low prices with a simple recipe: human-machine interaction. The start-up uses automation from advanced software wherever possible without giving up human input from a team of experts with more than ten years in the field.

This allows EasyAudit to intervene even where artificial intelligence alone would not be enough. Weak points in a site can be identified in advance, so vulnerabilities are known in time.

The final result is high-level protection at the lowest available price for services of this kind. EasyAudit offers packages starting from 900 euros, depending on the type of intervention, an unbeatable price compared with traditional consulting in this area.

Want to know if your company is truly protected?

EasyAudit checks applications, infrastructure and e-commerce platforms with a clear, concrete audit designed to turn technical risks into simple decisions.
